"HY-WAY SIMULATOR"

Scientists at Socony Mobil Oil Company have designed a four-lane "highway that permits autos to "travel" up to 100 M.P.H. without moving an inch. Known as a "hy-way simulator" it reproduces almost every traffic and road condition the American motorist encounters: stop-and-go jams, high-speed turnpikes, and steep up - and - down grades. It is being used to test tomorrow's car fuels.
